Highlights

- x Beth Young has been nominated and accepted the nomination to be on the Community College Business Officer (CCBO) Board of Directors.
- x Jenny Morgan, Coordinator of Testing Services, and her staff have been informed that Kishwaukee College Testing Services has been awarded the Test Certification by the National College Testing Association (NCTA). The recognition process is intense with rigorous criteria for certification based on the NCTA Professional Standards and Guides.
- x Kishwaukee College received several highlights for exemplary services in the Local Workforce Development Area #4 end-of-year report presented to the Board members during the August meeting. Noted was the work of Dariana Mahaffey, Jaime Schrader and Toscha Bradford, for serving 55 youth with barriers with training funds and employment services. The partnership between the IwNC

College CDL Truck Driving received recognition for being the number one choice for new training vouchers in the Kane-Kendall-DeKalb area.

- x While in Boston, Terry Lyn Funston created a Teacher Resource & Learning Online Center for her Entrepreneurship course at Northeastern University, which is now being used at various universities and colleges across the United States. The website acts as a warehouse of information for professors on how to teach college students.
